

HOW TO CLIMB RESPONSIBLY DURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC

COVID-19 is a health crisis that has affected millions of people. It may not affect every single person in our community the same, but for many, it could mean life or death. Please put the health of others at the top of the priority list when deciding to go rock climbing.

OTHER INFORMATION: This is a long-term situation and we need climbers to adapt to the pandemic and adjust behaviors accordingly. Sometimes, staying home rather than climbing will be the right call. Other times, going out to crags might be acceptable with proper planning and precautions. This graphic is meant to be a tool to help you make good decisions for you; it is not meant to be a definitive guide as to what to do. For more detailed information about COVID-19, closures in the area due to raptors, or other reasons, please visit boulderclimbers.org. Thanks for doing your part to help keep our community safe.
